
ACTA KORĒANA

VOL. 7, NO. 2, JULY 2004

Editor's Note	iii
Guest Editor's Introduction	1-5

ARTICLES

Buddhism at the Center: The Temples of Kaesŏng and Their Socio-political Role By SEM VERMEERSCH	7-34
Kaesŏng from the Perspective of Chosŏn Dynasty Intellectuals By SONJA HÄUBLER	35-64
History with a Capital H: Kaesŏng's Forgotten Claim to Capital History By REMCO E. BREUKER	65-102
Digging Up Buddhism: Tales Affirming the Antiquity of Buddhism in the Samguk yusa By JAMES H. GRAYSON	103-120
A Sociological Analysis of the 2002 Digital Formation of South Korea By HYE-SOON KIM	121-146

LITERATURE IN TRANSLATION

Misty Rain, Departing Rain (Kanŭn pi, isŭlbi) by PAK WAN-SŎ
Translated by DON MEE CHOI 147–162

My Song: Poems by SIN SŎK-CHŎNG (1907–1974)
Translated by TSCHUNG-SUN KIM 163–183

INTERVIEW

A Conversation with SUSAN CHOI
BRUCE FULTON 185–192

BOOK REVIEWS

Perspectives on Korean Dance. By Judy Van Zile
KEITH HOWARD 193–197

The Columbia Anthology of Traditional Korean Poetry. Edited by Peter H. Lee
GRACE E. KOH 197–201

Voices from the Straw Mat: Toward an Ethnography of Korean Story Singing.
By Chan E. Park
ROALD H. MALLANGKAY 201–205

Korean Composition. By Pong Ja Paik, Ji Young Kwak, and Ji Hyoun Choi
GERARD KRZIC 205–208

Korean Crisis and Recovery. By David T. Coe and Kim Se-Jik (eds)
BERNHARD SELIGER 208–210

Séoul, ville géante, cités radieuses. By Valérie Gelézeau
JAMES E. HOARE 210–212